Maharaja college to translate ancient works

India's oldest college in AP to work with Edu. ministry

V. KAMALAKARA RAO |
DC
VISAKHAPATNAM, AUG. 11

The 162-year-old Maharaja Government Sanskrit College in Vizianagaram has come up with an innovative concept of translating ancient books from Sanskrit to English and German.

This was the only non-technical college in the country to register with the Innovation Cell (MIC) of the Union education ministry to work on the project.

The college was awarded a certificate by MIC for presenting one of the best creative ideas, in the form of the project, at a regional conference here.

Principal of the Sanskrit College Anil Kumar told Deccan Chronicle that many ancient books written in Sanskrit are not available to the world due to the language problem. "We have a library with a collection of ancient books in Sanskrit language," Rao said, "To complete our project quickly, we need a fund of ₹5 lakh. We require at least 30 computers and other equipment. A special software tool is also required for this. We urge the government also to focus on Sanskrit so as to preserve its ancient flavour for future generations," he said.

The college has set up a special lab called Lingua Franca for this project. Language incubation coordinator Sulochana said MIC assistant director of Innovation Dipan Sahu was impressed by the college's initiative in Sanskrit. "The Sanskrit College is the only non-technical college that has received appreciation from MIC," she said. Sanskrit College was established in 1860 by the

- As our college is known for endorsing culture and tradition to the generations, our students took the permission of the Principal, Sri.P. Goureeswara Rao to observe Vinayaka Chavithi Mahotsavam on part of acquiring positive energy from the spiritual contemplation for 5 days. They have been idealistic in preparation of eco-friendly Vinayaka with Clay and hay. Every ritual has been performed by students themselves. That made them united and got opportunity to flaunt their own skills. Sri.T.Ramana, Lecturer in Sanskrit co-ordinated the whole activity until conducting Nimajjanotsavam . All the staff and students have participated in the program and worshipped the god Vinayaka for spreading the virtue of worship.
